

TABLEAU DE CORRESPONDANCE DES DIMENSIONS pour VOITURES PARTICULIERES & 4x4

Version du 1^{er} mars 2018

AVERTISSEMENT IMPORTANT :

- Les équivalences dimensionnelles théoriques données dans les tableaux ci-après ne constituent en aucun cas un guide de la transformation.
- Principe de construction des tableaux : une dimension de pneumatique est considérée comme équivalente à la dimension de départ (ou dimension d'origine constructeur) si elle satisfait à l'ensemble des conditions suivantes :
 - Indice de charge (LI : Load Index) égal ou supérieur à celui de la dimension d'origine;
 - Diamètre extérieur théorique (Design Overall Diameter) compris dans l'intervalle de tolérance du diamètre théorique de la dimension d'origine. Cet intervalle est défini par l'ETRTO (European Tyre and Rim Technical Organisation) qui standardise les caractéristiques dimensionnelles des pneumatiques : il est égal à +/- 3 % de la hauteur de boudin.
 - Largeur nominale supérieure d'au plus 50 mm à celle de la dimension d'origine
 - Code de diamètre jante supérieur d'au plus 3 à celui de la dimension d'origine. Par exemple, si la dimension d'origine est un 16 pouces, les dimensions équivalentes iront jusqu'à 19 pouces au plus.

Dans les tableaux, les dimensions de départ sont classées par largeurs nominales croissantes, puis par rapport d'aspect (séries) décroissantes.

Ces informations sont également disponibles sur le site : <http://www.tnpf.fr>

- à la compatibilité pneu/roue/véhicule
- à la préservation de l'espace suffisant (en statique et en dynamique) au niveau des passages de roues
